

December 18th is WORLD KNOT TYING DAY

WHAT TO DO?

Post a photo of yourself tying a knot onto any of the social media with the hashtag #worldknottyingday.

Any knot, simple or complicated, one you use every day, or one you only tie to show off your skill, or a photo of teaching someone a knot, or a group of people learning to tie a knot. The main thing is, label it with #worldknottyingday, maybe add a few words to explain what's in the picture, and post it on Facebook, Instagram etc

Founded in 1982, the International Guild of Knot Tyers, IGKT, is a world-wide organisation of people of all sorts interested in all kinds of knots and knotting techniques, whose members meet regularly both locally and internationally. The Guild produces a quarterly magazine called Knotting Matters.

Clifford W Ashley (1881-1947) was the major figure of 20th Century knotting and the author of the encyclopaedic Ashley Book of Knots, often referred to as the 'bible' of knotting. He was born on the 18th December. That is why the IGKT has chosen that date to be World Knot Tying Day.
